

What's News?

The month of July was, from a business point of view, a bit of a "wait and see" month. BPW is part of the MEIBC, and is therefore, like many companies in the Steel and Engineering industry, waiting to see whether we will suffer another crippling strike in our industry or not (like the four-week stint in 2014). So far so good...

As a result of the slower-than-usual pace of business, we have delayed the introduction of a new variation on our Air Suspension range by a month, and will share that with you at the end of August.

We have however revamped the marketing of our training programme with the release of a new 'BPW South Africa Training and Courses' video, which showcases BPW's modular approach to training, empowering transport professionals, especially those in technical positions within truck fleets, with all the theoretical and practical know-how to perfectly maintain BPW running gear for optimum safety, productivity and return-on-investment.

The video includes details of the respective courses, where they are hosted, how to register for training courses, as well as insightful feedback from several delegates who have undergone training at BPW Axles (Pty) Ltd.
